

- A- A few years ago Star Wars actor Ewan McGregor and his friend, Charley Boorman, began an incredible trip from the UK to South Africa by motorbikes. They started in Scotland in May and drove through 18 countries to arrive in Cape Town in August. They made a TV programme called Long Way Down with their cameraman, Claudio.
- B- First Ewan and Charley drove down through the UK and into France. Then they went across France and through the mountains into Italy. From there, they sailed across the sea to Africa and their adventure really began!
- C- In Libya, they were driving across the desert when a terrible sandstorm started. And in Kenya they carried their motorbike over a big river.
- D- But the most dangerous situation was in South Africa. Charley was performing stunts on his motorbike to some spectators when he hit Claudio, the cameraman. Claudio was filming when the accident happened, and he fell off his motorbike into the road. At first he didn't move, but then he stood up. The accident really hurt Claudio, but he was very brave, and continued working.
- E- When Ewan and Charley arrived in Cape Town, thousands of spectators and tourists were cheering for them. It was an incredible trip, but they arrived safely.
